

Prize notes

- Some of the sponsored prizes require annual confirmation from sponsors and are therefore subject to change.
- For administrative reasons, prizes are only awarded to students that complete their assessments in the first scheduled exam sitting for the module(s) or dissertation/coursework deadline. However, the School can, at its discretion, choose to recognise a student that has been allowed to take supplementary exams as if it were the first time, or has been granted dissertation/coursework extensions, in the event that the late student achieves a higher grade than the relevant prize winner
- Where a prize involves a placement (and a monetary award if applicable), students must indicate as soon as possible after notice of the prize whether they intend to avail of the placement opportunity. If they do not intend to avail, the prize (placement and monetary award if applicable) will go to the next highest student in the relevant category. Students that have chosen not to take up a placement opportunity will, however, have their performance in the subject recognised by the Law School in the form of a certificate.
- In the event of a tie for a prize which involves a placement, the Law School will attempt to negotiate a placement for each winner with the relevant firm. If this is not possible, the placement will be awarded to the student with the highest overall average across their subjects in that year. Any applicable monetary prize will be divided.
- If a student wins more than one prize, and is a joint winner of one or more of these, the law school can in its discretion decide to award the prize money for the jointly won prize(s) to the other joint winner(s).
