Professor Martin Glennie – Cancer Research at Southampton: Professor Martin Glennie (BSc Biology 1977, PhD 1981) is a Professor of Immunochemistry at the University of Southampton and Head of Cancer Sciences. His talk will look at the history of Cancer Research at Southampton over the last three decades and show how key discoveries have helped deliver new effective treatments. Much of this work comes from the belief that the body's immune system is key to controlling cancer and in finding ways to promote immune attack on these unwanted cells. Initially research focussed on making antibodies that would find and kill the cancer, but all too often it would find ways to escape these reagents. More recently, success has come from developing cancer vaccines which generate specialised 'killer' cells in cancer patients and from a new class of drugs which help prevent killer cells from becoming 'exhausted' in their fight with cancer.

Why not make a weekend of it?

Day trip to the Isle of Wight

Exclusive discounts on Isle of Wight day trips on Sunday 12 July for Class Reunion attendees.

From the opulent Osborne House to the stunning Mottistone Manor Gardens, spectacular countryside and award-winning gastro pubs, there is something for everyone on the Isle of Wight, which is just 55 minutes from Southampton.

Red Funnel Isle of Wight Ferries are pleased to offer all class reunion attendees an exclusive ferry travel offer on their vehicle ferry service from Southampton (Town Quay) to East Cowes on the Isle of Wight. On Sunday 12 July reunion attendees can get foot passenger travel for just £6.30 or 20% off travel for a car and up to 7 people. The University will provide full details of this offer on completion of booking your Class Reunion place.
